

The 8th Annual

Ron McCallum Debate

Collective bargaining: Delivering for the public interest?

Join representatives from the union movement, business, academia and the community as we discuss and debate the role of collective bargaining now and into the future.

Our panel will explore the extent to which the enterprise bargaining model has been successful, debating the question can collective bargaining deliver for employees, employers and the public interest? If so, what should be the scope, level and mode of bargaining? If not, what alternatives are appropriate for determining conditions of work?

The panel will explore:

- The state of enterprise bargaining
- Bargaining in the gig economy
- Interest based bargaining approaches
- Collective bargaining into the future

The 2018 debate will be moderated by the Honourable Geoff Giudice AO, with Emeritus Professor Ron McCallum AO providing his reflections.

Our 2018 panel includes presentations from:

- Professor Anthony Forsyth, RMIT University
- Kate Minter, Research Director, Unions NSW
- Kim Parish, Chief People Officer, House with No Steps
- Steven Smith, Head of National Workplace Relations Policy, AiGroup

More speakers to be announced

Don't miss what is sure to be a compelling discussion, RSVP today!

4pm - 6pm

Tuesday 9 October 2018

Wesley Theatre
220 Pitt Street Sydney

A free public event

To secure your place please RSVP by 2 October 2018 to
admin@airights.com.au

Proudly sponsored by Harmers Workplace
Lawyers

Presented by the Australian Institute of Employment Rights, an independent, not for profit organisation that works in the public interest to promote the recognition and implementation of the rights of employees and employers in a cooperative industrial relations framework.

